

An educated workforce

I'm no doctor, but guys, with half their body missing I think they may be goners! (Editor)

Sport NI is demanding that sport's coaches are well educated in all areas of coaching: from planning fitness programmes, knowing the rules of the sport to the safety of their athletes. So a class was organised with the British Red Cross in their Belfast premises for apprentice coaches and existing coaches needing a refresher. The attendees were well pleased with the level and professionalism of the presenter and the course which is recognised by the National Coaching Foundation. TANI would like to thank Sport NI for funding the course.
